HELP YOUR GARDEN RECOVER AFTER HEAVY WINTER RAINS

Heavy winter rains are both a blessing and a challenge in the Western Cape gardens. While the rain replenishes dams, groundwater and soil moisture after dry summers, excessive water can quickly damage vegetable beds and weaken plants if the garden is not managed correctly.

Stay Off Wet Soil

Walking on soaked soil will compact it and squeezes out the air needed by roots and soil organisms.

Wait until soil is damp rather than sticky. Use stepping stones or boards if access is required.

Check Drainage Problems

Look for standing water, erosion channels, yellowing plants and muddy areas.

Fix it:
- Opening shallow drainage channels
- Raise low areas with compost and mulch
- Creating raised beds in poorly drained areas

Remove Damaged Material

Remove all the rotting leaves, mouldy mulch, collapsed plants, diseased stems and spoiled fruit.

Dispose of heavily infected material away from compost heap.

Replenish Lost Nutrients

Rain leaches nutrients from the soil. A light feeding is usually enough while plants recover. Add gentle feeders.

- Compost
- Well-aged manure
- Worm castings
- Seaweed solution
- Rock dust for mineral balance

Reapply Mulch

Heavy rain can wash away or breakdown mulch.

Suitable mulches include:
- Straw and Dry leaves
- Wood chips (around fruit trees)
- Thin layers of grass clippings

Keep mulch slightly away from stems.

Aerate Compacted Areas

Once soil becomes workable again use a garden fork. Push the fork in and rock it gently, don't turn the soil over.

This improves oxygen flow to roots and beneficial microbes.

Avoid working wet clay soils too much

Watch for Slugs & Snails

Wet winters lead to increases in slug and snail populations.

Control methods:
- Beer traps
- Hand collection at dusk
- Crushed eggshell barriers
- Bring in Ducks or chickens where practical

Protect Sensitive Plants

After prolonged rain, many plants become vulnerable to cold stress & fungal infection.

Protection methods include:
- Row covers
- Temporary tunnels
- Extra mulch around roots
- Improving airflow

Reduce overcrowding to allow foliage to dry faster.

Sow Winter-Friendly Crops

Once beds recover, the winter is ideal for cool-season crops.

- Spinach
- Kale
- Lettuce
- Broad beans
- Peas
- Beetroot
- Carrots
- Onions
- Garlic

These crops generally thrive in cool, moist conditions with good drainage

Improve the Garden Long-Term

If flooding occurs every winter, consider making long-term improvements to prevent ongoing damage.

- Build raised beds
- Adding organic matter yearly
- Installing swales or French drains
- Plant cover crops
- Increasing soil biology through compost and mulch

Healthy, nutrient-rich soil acts like a sponge, retaining moisture during dry periods while still draining well after heavy rain.

A garden that recovers well after winter rain is usually one built on healthy soil, good drainage, and patient management rather than quick fixes. By allowing wet ground to dry properly, rebuilding soil structure with organic matter, controlling disease early, and protecting vulnerable plants, gardeners can turn difficult winter conditions into an opportunity for stronger spring growth. Over time, practices such as mulching, composting, raised beds, and improving soil biology create gardens that are far more resilient to flooding and seasonal extremes, producing healthier plants and more reliable harvests year after year.

Winter Planting
FOR WINTER & SPRING COLOUR

Winter in the Western Cape transforms gardens into soft green sanctuaries washed by rain and cooled by crisp coastal air. With the right planting choices, your garden can remain colourful, productive, and low maintenance while preparing for a spectacular spring display. From cheerful flowers and hardy vegetables to wind-resistant shrubs and indigenous screening plants, winter is one of the best seasons to plant and improve your soil.

BEST FLOWERS
for winter and spring colour

Pansies, Violas, Calendulas, Sweet Peas, Alyssum, Snapdragons, Nasturtiums, Primulas, Petunias and Osteospermum.

HERBS to plant now

- Parsley
- Coriander
- Thyme
- Chives
- Oregano
- Rosemary

VEGETABLES
for productive gardens

Lettuce, Spinach, Broccoli, Cabbage, Cauliflower, Beetroot Broad beans, Onions, Carrots,

BEST SCREENING and Windbreaks
for coastal gardens

- Cape Honeysuckle
- Num Num
- Wild Olive
- Milkwood

INDIGENOUS SHRUBS to plant now

- Cape Honeysuckle
- Dietes Grandiflora
- Wild Rosemary
- Plectranthus
- Agapantus
- Num Num
- Spekboom

BULBS in pots or garden

Advertiser REVIEWS

Hulle lewer uitstekende diens.
Stap altyd die ekstra myl.
Baie goeie pryse.
Philip Derwort - Da Gama Laundry & Dry Cleaners

Wilgewandel was van die begin af een van van Lalakoi se lojale adverteerders. Oor die jare het ons baie goeie reaksie op ons advertensies gekry. Die profesionele manier waarop die drukwerk en bemarking gedoen word word baie waardeer. Die advertensies word vroegtydig gedoen sodat die bemarkings materiaal betyds vrygestel kan word Ons dink ook dat die prysstruktuur ook baie billik is.
Wilgewandel Holiday Farm (Oudtshoorn)

Altyd goeie, profesionele en vriendelike diens van Lalakoi! Puik bemarkings platvorm.
Freshwash Laundry George

Uitstekende diens, altyd bereidwillig om te help. Kwaliteit werk en vinnige diens.
Tiens Munnik - TiensM Transport & Earthworks

I have been a client of Lalakoi for more than 20 years and, in all these years, I have only received incredible service from them. They are always quick to respond to requests or queries, they develop a personal relationship with every client and nothing is ever too much trouble! Wilma is amazing when it comes to keeping the website active and prominent, with regular suggestions and updates, even before I asked! She is incredibly creative and knowledgeable.
Cecile Steyn Physiotherapist

Always efficient, on the ball and 3 steps ahead! Thank you so much for your excellent service!
Cathy Fourie - The Little Art Shop

Uitstekende diens aan ons besigheid al die jare! Doen verskriklik baie moeite en niks is ooit teveel om te doen nie! Flink diens en altyd vars idees en beslis op die "ball"!

George

George, the administrative capital of the Garden Route, is ideally situated 430 kilometres from Cape Town and 329 kilometres from Gqeberha. While George continues to grow with modern developments and sophisticated infrastructure, the town has proudly retained its warm old-town charm. Surrounded by the magnificent Outeniqua Mountains, visitors can enjoy scenic hiking trails, world-class golf courses, historical buildings, shopping centres and a variety of activities for the whole family. It remains one of South Africa's most loved holiday destinations.
